

Paradise Lost? Climate Change in the Northwoods An Art and Science Exhibition

Winter's End
Helen Klebesadel

Special Viewing

Exhibit Hours: 6:00 p.m. - 8:30 p.m.

Tuesday, July 8, 2008

Location: Wild Rose Hatchery

Education Center

W5871 State Road 22

Wild Rose WI 54982

(920) 622-3527, Ext. 209

Paradise Lost? Climate Change in the Northwoods Exhibit will be on display at the Wild Rose Fish Hatchery Education Center through August 15, 2008. The exhibit was made possible at the hatchery from a generous donation by Miron Construction, chief contractor for the hatchery renovation project.

6:00 p.m. Paradise Lost Exhibit Viewing

6:30 p.m. Program

Amy Arntson, Professor Emerita of Art and Design at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater will speak on her watercolor exhibit piece, The Things We Know.

John J. Magnuson, Professor Emeritus of Zoology and Limnology, University of Wisconsin – Madison will speak on climate change, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, and the possible effects on the waters of Wisconsin and the fish that inhabit them. Wild Rose State Fish Hatchery is located on State Highway 22 one half mile north of Wild Rose, south of Waupaca.

Hatchery Tours will be arranged by appointment only until the official opening date which is scheduled for July 15, 2008. At that time, visitor center hours will be 7:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. daily.

For more information on Paradise Lost visit www.wisc.edu/cbe/k12/paradiselost.html Teachers: Visit www.cbe.wisc.edu/paradiselost for resources on Teaching About Climate Change in the Great Lakes Region. University of Wisconsin, Madison

